Sesamum Seeds
The Jump In Prices
Declining Production

THERE is a marked improvement in the situation of the China produce market. There is a better feeling abroad, and a fairly good business consumption in certain lines. In other directions, business is still of the same conservative character that has been noted for some time past. Many consumers are still averse to purchasing beyond their immediate needs pending further developments in the business and Chinese situation as well as in political affairs abroad. Offerings of many products are light owing to the close of the season in these, and although the prevailing tone is steady, changes in prices of most commodities in the produce group are unimportant.

A notable exception is sesamum seeds, in which a fair business has been transacted, and were it not for the appreciation in the Hankow market quite a large volume of trade in this particular line would have resulted. On the signs of an improved tone in the European market the Chinese dealers on this side were not slow in raising their prices. London during the week was offering to buy at $22.10.0, and while some exporters were fortunate enough to get into the business before the rise at Hankow others found it difficult to execute the orders in hand.

LOCAL PRICE JUMPS
The local price for sesamum seeds jumped up from Tls. 7 per picul to Tls. 7.50 per picul, which at the ruling rate of exchange corresponds to $23.10.0 per ton, a pound sterling difference between what London buyers can offer and what the Chinese dealers in Shanghai are prepared to accept.

It is stated that Hankow put through quite a large-sized business in the new crop sesamum seeds for October-December shipment. The total amount of trade in sesamum seeds of the new crop shortly expected on the market is about 20,000 pounds, or half the export surplus of the whole season. It is this fact that has made the Chinese holders somewhat nervous, for it is almost certain that with a steady demand for the product the balance of the surplus within a month would be wiped out. Working on this calculation, the farmers in the interior are demanding higher prices, and expect to get them. The rate ruling in Hankow is about a mace lower than the Shanghai quotation.

YIELD IS DECLINING
A sad feature of this trade is that the yield of sesamum seeds has been steadily declining in China, and unless the Chinese agriculturists are made to recognize the importance of putting larger areas under cultivation of this product the consuming markets abroad will be compelled to draw upon India and elsewhere for supplies. No up-to-date information is yet available as to the area of land in China devoted to the cultivation of sesamum seeds nor are there any official statistics showing the percentage of the production which is exported abroad. Although the annual trade returns of the Chinese Maritime Customs show the quantity and value of sesamum seeds exported abroad from China, it must not be forgotten that a large quantity is also consumed in the country of production. The export figures for last year for the whole of China are not yet available, but those for the year previous show a quantity of 1,480,547 piculs of the value of Tls. 8,811,626 against 2,338,504 piculs of the value of Tls. 15,577,268 in 1919 and 2,056,240 piculs valued at Tls. 10,330,070 in 1920.

RAPSEEDS QUIET
Rapeseeds are very quiet owing to the withdrawal of the Japanese buyers from this section as a result of the chaos that exists in business circles in Japan. The rate in Shanghai is nominal at Tls. 5.40 per picul. There is no easier feeling. The extent of the loss of rapeseeds stored in Tokyo and Yokohama is not known, and until business becomes normal in Japan nothing much in the nature of fresh exports of this product to that country could be looked forward to. The stocks in Japan of rapeseeds are reported to be small, but there is no demand for rapeseed oil or cakes, so there is no inducement for the Japanese merchants to operate at the present moment. Shanghai stocks are estimated at 10,000 bags, sufficient for present needs.

Business in new crop groundnuts is coming to book and although Shanghai exporting houses have not put through any transactions in this commodity with Europe or the United States, Tientsin has been successful in clinching orders. The new crop is expected to be marketed about the end of October, and from all accounts

TREATY MUST BE EXECUTED, STAND TAKEN BY POINCARÉ

French Premier Gives Views On Ruhr In Speech

NEW PLAN SNARE

German Proposal But A Delusion, He Declares

(Reuter's Service)
Paris, Sept. 16.—M. Poincaré in the course of a speech today at Dun-sur-Meuse said that some persons now regarding the decisions of Versailles as a dead letter and blamed France for insisting on their execution. There could be no security for international relations if treaties concluded could be disowned. The "Treaty of Versailles" entrusted the task of fixing the German debt and the conditions of its payment to the Reparations Commission, whose powers Germany expressly recognized. If there was any idea of divesting the Commission of this task, it was undoubtedly because the Commission was considered little favorable to new concessions, which France would not countenance as contrary to the promises made to France. "We hold guarantees and we shall keep them until we have received satisfaction."

(Reuter's Service)
Paris, Sept. 16.—Devoting his speech at Brielle-sur-Meuse to the question of security, M. Poincaré, the Premier, said that Germany, which in a few years could appear before them helmeted, armed and ready for revenge, today was whispering words which she thought to be alluring promises and from which she expected marvels. M. Poincaré proceeded emphatically to reject the German suggestion of a general pact, whereby the Powers, including Germany, would guarantee the Rhine frontiers, as a snare and a delusion. He declared that France would keep the treaties given by the Treaty of Versailles and would not be caught by trickery or lured by decoys. Incidentally, the premier asserted that, as Germany had not executed any of the clauses of the Treaty of Versailles, the prescribed periods for the occupation of the left bank of the Rhine had not yet begun to run.

GOVERNMENT OF FIUME RESIGNS; ITALY TO RULE

General Giardini Is Named To Take Control Of City State

(Reuter's Service)
Rome, Sept. 16.—The Government of Fiume has resigned. The Vice-President of the Constituent Assembly of Fiume has despatched a letter to the Italian Government complaining of the evil effects of the long delay in settlement between Italy and Yugoslavia, and stating that the people are becoming exasperated and unemployment is rife, and therefore continuance in office is useless.

The resignation will mean that there will be no authority in Fiume and that by the end of the month the city will be completely deprived of its means of subsistence.

(Reuter's Service)
Rome, Sept. 17.—It is announced that, pending a settlement of the question and in view of the abnormal situation at Fiume as revealed by the letter from Signor Depoli, vice president of the constituent assembly there, the Italian cabinet has decided to appoint General Giardini military governor with authority to carry on the administration.

This decision has been communicated to the government at Belgrade and to all the powers.
London, Sept. 17.—Signor Mussolini's sensational action in appointing a military governor of Fiume, which the Treaty of Rapallo proscribed should be a free town, was quite unexpected. In London where the general impression was that Signor Mussolini had thought better of the threat implied in the so-called ultimatum which reserved the right to full liberty of action if the question was not settled by September 15.

There is reason to fear that the latest move will mean a renewed crisis between Rome and Belgrade. The latest advice received from Fiume as being in complete control of the Italians who have very formidable forces near the vicinity.

Franklin Asserts Treaties Under Which Kearney Is Charged Are Null And Void

Defense In Arms Case Contends President's Proclamation Superseded Previous Provisions Concerning Munitions Importation

One of the most unique legal actions ever tried in an American court began yesterday before Judge Charles Sumner Loring in the United States Court for China when Judge C. S. Franklin, attorney for Captain L. D. Kearney, argued two demurrers in an effort to have Judge Loring declare three treaties between China and the United States null and void insofar as they would have any bearing in sending his client to jail for alleged violations of their terms.

Judge Franklin in one of the most grandiloquent oratorical offerings heard in the American court for years asserted that deep underlying Constitutional principles were involved in the action. He complimented District Attorney Leonard G. Husar for his ingenuity in shaking the dust of forgotten times containing the treaties and admitted that the action brought by the District Attorney was probably the most intricate and involved Chinese puzzle that had ever been brought into the court for solving.

"It would take the tongue of Daniel Webster and the brain of Chief Justice John Marshall to properly deal with this most intricate subject," Judge Franklin declared, "and I hesitate to attempt to unroll the record revealing the uncharted course that the learned District Attorney has set upon. It is, in effect, the making of new law, but I know of no judge or no court more competent to make clear the involved principles at stake than your Honor, or this Court."

ELIMINATION
Judge Franklin then proceeded to attempt to save Captain Kearney from facing trial on charges of conspiracy in the importation of contraband arms and ammunition by a process of elimination. Citing the facts that Captain Kearney was charged with having conspired with Admiral Stark and others to buy certain arms on Russian vessels lying off Wonsung last November, and selling them in China, Judge Franklin explained that Mr. Husar had filed the charges against his client as coming under three treaties between China and the United States signed in 1844, 1858 and 1903. All three treaties provided that it was unlawful for an American to import arms or ammunition into China under pain of losing his extraterritorial rights and facing judgment before a Chinese Court.

Judge Franklin attacked the information on two distinct points—that the treaties are not now in full force and effect, and therefore Captain Kearney has committed no crime—and on the ground that if the treaties are in effect their provisions dealing with arms and ammunition have not the force or effect of laws.

SUPERSEDED
Treaties, Judge Franklin asserted, may lose their force and effect by several methods, and one method was by being superseded by a later treaty. The treaty of 1844, he contended, had been superseded by the treaty of 1858, as the latter treaty contained identical provisions concerning arms and ammunition as were contained in the earlier treaty. By the same manner of reasoning Judge Franklin contended that the treaty of 1858 had, in turn, been superseded by the treaty of 1903 as it also contained, in substance, the same provisions as

DOLLAR PASSENGER VESSELS SOON TO CIRCLE GLOBE

Purchase Seven Government Ships For New Dual

The Robert Dollar Company within another month will inaugurate a round-the-world passenger and freight service with seven "State" boats just purchased from the United States Shipping Board, according to an announcement made by Mr. J. Harold Dollar yesterday.

The vessels will all be renamed with "Dollar" names and will be thoroughly equipped with the latest and most modern conveniences for the comfort of the passengers, Mr. Dollar said. All are of the "502" type, which are slightly shorter than the vessels operated by the Pacific Mail and Admiral-Orin lines, but give more cargo space. They have provisions for 800 first class passengers and a speed of a little better than 14 knots.

One of the boats to be taken over under the purchase agreement has not yet been selected, Mr. Dollar said, but the six for which negotiations have been definitely concluded are: The Old North State, now the President Van Buren; the Granite State, now the President Polk; the Creole State, renamed the President Hayes; the Panhandle State, now the President Monroe; the Wolverine State, now the President Harrison and the Blue Hen State, now the President Garfield.

All of these vessels with the exception of the President Harrison and the President Hayes, which are being operated by Swayne and Hoyt on the San Francisco-Buenos Aires run, are now laid up at some port on the Atlantic coast, probably Norfolk. "These ships will be put into service immediately," Mr. Dollar said, "and will have only first-class accommodations. For some time we have been operating a 'round the world' cargo service, so it was but a short step to expand into this unique passenger service."

"The acquisition of these ships was an independent deal and does not mean the absorption of any trans-Pacific line. Under present plans the ships will sail from San Francisco and call at ports in Japan, China, the Philippines, Java, the Straits Settlement, Egypt, various Mediterranean ports and New York. Thence they go through the Panama Canal and back to San Francisco," Mr. Dollar said.

All of the vessels are of the "502" type, being built along the same lines as the President ships

Furthermore, Judge Franklin argued, the treaty of 1903 also contained a "Rule 3" under which the charges were brought, which incorporated the same provisions as in the previous treaty with the exception that it provided that it was unlawful for arms and ammunition to be imported except at the instigation of the Chinese Government, or for sale to Chinese duly authorized to purchase them.

PRESENT STATUS

Not content with having verbally wiped out two treaties between China and the United States, Judge Franklin then proceeded to eliminate the treaty of 1903. That treaty, he contended, had been superseded by President Harding's proclamation on March 4, 1922, in which it is specifically stated that it is unlawful to import arms into China only from the United States. The information filed by Mr. Husar charges that Capt. Kearney imported the arms from a Russian vessel at the Woosung Port.

Judge Franklin insisted that the proclamation had superseded the earlier treaty as, he contended, it was a well known principle of law that treaties were abrogated by later statutes.

"You mean that one of the high contracting parties can abrogate the provisions of treaties by passing statutes covering the same ground at a later date?" Judge Lobingier asked. "If the Chinese Parliament passed a law relating to the same subject as covered by an earlier treaty it would abrogate the provisions of that treaty?"

"Yes," Judge Franklin declared. "as far as Chinese are concerned it would not, however, effect the international relations between China and the other treaty making power."

Judge Franklin then explained that an Act of Congress of January 3, 1922—a later statute covering the same subject—which was put into force by President Harding on March 4 had superseded the 1903 treaty and made it a crime to import arms into China only from the United States.

IMPORTANT LETTER

Judge Franklin then put into evidence a letter from Mr. James P. Davis, Acting Consul-in-Charge at the American Consulate-General. The letter was in reply to one from Judge Franklin inquiring concerning the provisions of a law in effect in 1919 which prohibited the importation of arms into China.

Mr. Davis, in answering, explained that, by instruction of the American Legation in Peking, he informed Judge Franklin that the active policy of the United States affecting the importation of arms into China was based solely on President Harding's proclamation of March 4, 1922.

Judge Franklin in support of the importance of the letter cited several Supreme Court cases in which it was put down that decisions of branches of the American government affecting their own subjects were to be considered as having the full force of being the correct interpretation of the question unless they were in opposition to the spirit of the constitution or the law.

Mr. Husar objected to the court taking official cognizance of the signature of an American official on such an important subject, indicating that a bitter fight would be made over the letter.

Judge Franklin then brought his verbal guns into action in support of his second contention: that even though the treaties were in force their provisions did not have the full force and effect of laws. He declared that treaties were of two kinds, self-executing and not self-executing. These treaties he classed as not self-executing as they did not have the effect of laws. Congress alone had the power of making an act a crime, he contended, and these treaties did not carry that power.

HUSAR OPPOSES

District Attorney Husar opposed Judge Franklin's argument on the ground that he had misconstrued the constitutionality of the treaties.

Mr. Husar outlined his theory of the action brought against Captain Kearney and based his argument for the action under the treaties on the ground that treaties were the law of the land.

He read the treaties' provisions concerning the importation of arms into China as well as numerous authorities upholding his contention that they were in full force and effect in the Kearney case. In answering Judge Franklin's argument concerning the validity of the treaties Mr. Husar asserted that the treaties had not been superseded by the President's proclamation because the language in the treaty of 1903 and in the proclamation was not the same and, also, because the treaty of 1903 specifically stated that all treaties in force in 1900 remained in force unless they were specifically abrogated.

Both Judge Franklin and Mr. Husar will file briefs on what is considered the chief moot point in the case, Judge Franklin contends that the treaty was made by the President and the Senate, while laws to have the full effect must be made by both houses of Congress. Mr. Husar contends that the President and the Senate, through virtue of their treaty making power, had the power to make the treaty with China which contained the provisions making the importation of arms a crime.

Judge Lobingier took the demurrer under advisement pending the filing of the briefs. If the demurrer is sustained it will mean that the treaties are unconstitutional and the actions against Captain Kearney as well as other alleged dealers in arms and munitions will be dropped by the District Attorney.

now operated by the Pacific Mail and the Admiral Oriental Lines, though not quite so large. They have, however, a somewhat larger cargo capacity than those of the "535" type.

They were built along standard designs at various American shipyards in 1920, are of 12,000-ton deadweight tons, were originally arranged for 100 first class passengers, and have an average steaming speed of about 15 knots. Fifteen hundred tons of refrigerating space has recently been added to each, greatly enhancing their value as cargo carriers, which is also increased by the speed with which they may be loaded and discharged through the remarkable facilities in the way of ship's machinery. They have 11 hatches, 23 booms and 21 winches.

In every respect the equipment of these ships is thoroughly modern and to add to the comfort of passengers, all cabins are ventilated by the latest method, cold air being blown in during hot spells, while a hot air draft is created in colder climates. They are now being overhauled to fit them for service in the tropics, having been built originally for the Atlantic run.

The President Hayes, the President Harrison and the President Taft, formerly were operated by the Pacific Mail in their service from San Francisco to Manila and India, each making four trips, when the service was discontinued. During the time that they were allocated to this Company, the accommodations were changed so as to provide for 78 first class and 500 steerage passengers, life boats adequate to cover their increased capacity being added at the same time. The new owners, however, propose to carry only first class passengers, as it is expected that the new service, the only one of the kind, will make a great appeal to tourist traffic.

What is believed to be a record in the matter of cargo loading was established by the President Hayes on one of her voyages for the Pacific Mail, 2,000 tons of rice being loaded per hour while taking a full cargo at Saigon, according to Mr. A. E. Frank, their Passenger Agent, who was at that time her Chief Freight Clerk. The President Hayes also made one trip for the Pacific Mail in the proposed San Francisco-Hongkong-Manila run, but was taken off when the service was abandoned.

Mr. Dollar said that the inauguration of the new service would mean that at least ten more foreigners would be added to the Dollar staff here.

HUNGARY WILL GET BIG LOAN

GENEVA HEARS

Issue Of 500,000,000 Gold Francs Practically Arranged

(Reuter's Service)
Paris, Sept. 16.—Interviewed by a representative of a Hungarian news agency, the Minister of Finance, Dr. Kallay, declared that the particularly encouraging prospect of Austria allowed of the prediction of a prompt and successful solution of the plan for a Hungarian loan.

(Exclusive China Press)
Geneva, Sept. 17.—It is reported in League of Nations circles that a 500,000,000 gold franc loan for Hungary has been practically arranged and is to be made under the control of the reparations commission, with the League appointing a high commissioner as advisor.

PRODUCE

will be a fair one, somewhat up to the average and no better than last season. There is a better interest evinced in this product. The quest for new crop is spasmodic, and the tone of general business seems to influence buying. At times the buying trade is pessimistic and at times it shows some confidence.

RUSH IS EXPECTED
Taken as a whole the contracting has been moderate compared with previous weeks, and exporters look for a rush of orders once the new crop prices are established. At present the buying is only fair with few commitments made for shipment up till the end of the year. There seems to be a fair division of ideas concerning the reasonableness of present quotations. A few hope to buy at more favorable levels later on, after the new crop begins to come on the market.

Local prices for peanut oil are considered too high for consumers abroad. Notwithstanding this, there has been active participation in buying by Cantonese merchants who bought spot cargo at 115, 3.50 per picul. Stocks in Shanghai are sparse. Inquiry from London and the Continent remain within very narrow compass.

The market in wood oil is somewhat weaker, though changes in price are generally slight. There is lack of demand of any importance. Offerings in Hankow are light in all positions, but such developments have been without effect in the United States, the market being influenced for the time being mainly by the quietness of trade.

Changes in animal products are generally confined within narrow limits.

There is no likelihood of any large increase in shipments of animal fats and wood oil before the end of the year.

Fight Nets $450,000 For Dempsey, Who Says Firpo "Might Have Won" In First

Champion Admits Firpo Is Hardest Hitter He Ever Met, But Says Lack Of Speed
Nullified His Efforts

(Exclusive China Press)
New York, Sept. 16.—Luis Angel Firpo, the somewhat tamed Wild Bull of the Pampas, left for a motor trip into Canada today before sailing for South America to rest.

Before he left, Firpo chatted with newspapermen and declared that he felt that he had made a creditable showing against Jack Dempsey.

"I came within an ace of winning the championship in the first round when I knocked Jack through the ropes," Firpo asserted. "I'm going to take a little time up into Canada and then go home to Buenos Aires. When I return I'll be better prepared to fight again—and win."

Champion Jack Dempsey today confessed that he had never been in such a fight in his life.

"When he walked me on the chin in the first round," Dempsey said, "I thought for an instant that the end had come. Those who said that Firpo was a soft mark were certainly talking through their hats. He's dangerous every second. He's a puncher and he's the hardest puncher I've ever faced. He knocked me down for the first time I've been knocked down since I became champion and I saw $450,000 stars."

(BY UNITED PRESS)

New York, Sept. 17.—Jack Dempsey, who retained his title as heavyweight champion of the world Friday night by his sensational knockout of Luis Angel Firpo, Argentinian heavyweight, in interviews given to newspapermen today declared that Firpo is the hardest hitter he had ever met.

"If Firpo had been a bit quicker in the first round he might have won the fight," Dempsey admitted.

Dempsey's share of the purse was $450,000 and Firpo's $150,000.

It is estimated that approximately 90,000 persons witnessed the battle.

(Reuter's Service)

London, Sept. 15.—The gate receipts at the Dempsey-Firpo fight amounted to $1,250,000. There were 85,800 spectators.

THE ANDRE LEBON BRINGS SURVIVORS FROM QUAKE ZONE

About Fifty Refugees Arrive By French Mail Liner

With about fifty earthquake survivors aboard the French Mail liner Andre Lebon, which had a thrilling experience in Yokohama harbor during the disaster, arrived in Shanghai Sunday, bringing fresh stories of the devastation wrought and of the suffering among the thousands of victims.

Among the survivors passing through on the ship is Mme. Desjardins, wife of the French Consul-General at Yokohama, who was killed when the Consulate building collapsed. Mme. Desjardins and her little daughter escaped and are now on their way to Marseilles.

The Andre Lebon was lying at the wharf with her engines disabled when the shock came. This helpless and first she was endangered by burning small craft which drifted toward her and which had to be sunk. On the second day a rescue party discovered the body of M. Desjardins and gave it burial amid the ruins of the Consulate. Meanwhile members of the ship's company were rendering all aid possible to the injured and destitute, of whom about 2,000, of all nationalities, were eventually landed at Kobe.

Great danger menaced the Andre Lebon when Standard Oil tanks blew up, flooding the bay with flaming oil. After great effort Captain Cousin managed to get clear of the pier and after an American resident of Yokohama, Mr. Lamm, had taken a mooring line to a buoy at the harbor entrance with a motor boat, the big liner was worked out to a safe spot. Relief headquarters were established aboard the ship and every possible assistance was given until the ship sailed for Kobe.

The tender Alexandra from the Andre Lebon was met at the jetty here by Major A. H. Hilton Johnson and other members of the local relief committee, while a large crowd of local residents was also on hand to welcome the refugees.

Mr. R. E. Thompson, proprietor of Arthur & Bond's at Yokohama, who had a miraculous escape during the earthquake, is returning to Kobe on the s.s. President Lincoln, sailing from here tomorrow morning. He will reopen his business at Kobe in order to supply his New York, San Francisco and London offices. There were fourteen arches in Mr. Thompson's store and the only one that did not collapse was the one under which he jumped when the building caved in.

Sunday morning ham and eggs, particularly after you have just slipped off an invigorating too much down country roads, are far and away beyond any other variety Shanghai has to offer. This is the testimonial given by members of the new American mounted unit of the S.V.C. In giving it they claim that they are even taking into account fond recollections of pork and henfruit blazed up in cuntry places hereabouts at 3 o'clock in the morning.

Members of the unit are in a fair way toward establishing an entirely new vogue for all Shanghai. They started it last Sunday, when, after the usual 10-mile country ride, which started at 6:30 a.m., all piled into the country home of Major and Mrs. C. P. Holcomb, where they were given a ham and egg breakfast. Beer was the other course on the menu. Next Sunday, the same outfit, after its early morning ride, will be the guests at a similar function at the home of their commanding officer, Capt. A. A. Slag.

The Sunday morning ride is only one feature of the "unit" of the unit. Bi-weekly drills are now being held regularly every Tuesday and Friday at the Gordon Road Riding School.

Three-quarters of the men in the unit have had previous riding experience, but all are starting in at the beginning and learning it all over again in order that those without experience may have a fair chance to make good. Exceptionally good turnouts are reported at all of the drills.

Members of the unit are also holding regular target practice daily at 11th time in preparation for the American cup shoot.

INDIANS JAILED ON CHARGES OF IMPORTING OPIUM

Two Indians, Nathu Khan and Mohammed Shafie, were sentenced to imprisonment with hard labor—the first for three months and the second for one month—by Magistrate G. W. King of the British Police Court yesterday for importing and dealing in opium.

Chief Inspector O'Toole testified that on the 15th as a result of a report received by the police the accused were arrested at 50 Yulin Road. A box belonging to one of the men was found to contain about $25 worth of opium while another box, belonging to the other accused, was found to contain Persian opium valued at about $60, two balls of inferior opium and 13 packets of the drug valued at $5 each.

The principal accused declared that he got the opium from someone on the steamer Macedonia and that he bought it for his own use.

Foul Play Feared In Case Of Chinese With Crushed Skull

Evidence of foul play are seen in connection with the death of a Chinese who was brought into St. Luke's Hospital surgeons from a fractured skull Saturday afternoon and succumbed without regaining consciousness on Sunday.

The victim was brought to the hospital by another Chinese who said he would inform his charge's parents and would return next day. He failed to reappear.

An inquest was begun by Assessor Whitmore and Magistrate Tang yesterday and was adjourned to allow further investigation of the case.

Kobe To Take Yokohama's Place As Silk Port

Kobe may take the place of Yokohama in the silk business, after all, without merely sharing in it, which has been its ambition.

The Kobe Chamber of Commerce has met to discuss this subject, representatives of the Mitsui, the Shintei and the city office participating. A visit was decided on at this meeting has not been made known. The whole thing seems now to hinge upon the problem of banking facilities, which may be arranged satisfactorily. Manufacturers in Shinshu are in favor of Kobe, and are urging Kobe to carry out her plan promptly. Yokohama has only one arm left of any importance, the Shinsen Kaisha, which is said to approve of Kobe, while the Mitsui Bussan Kaisha has transferred its silk business to the Kobe office.

The Osaka Chamber of Commerce is willing to sink its own interest in the larger interest of the national finances, and has decided to support the Kobe plan, especially as the Mitsui, the Nippon Cotton Company, and members of its own are for Kobe. The Chamber has passed a resolution to the effect that now that the advantage of Kobe as a silk port is beyond dispute, the Kobe Chamber of Commerce should enter upon the necessary arrangements at once, and that the Koto, Osaka and Kobe Chambers should co-operate in securing banking facilities in connection with the exportation.

The resolution was to be brought up for discussion at the meeting of the committees of the three chambers to be held at Kyoto yesterday (8th instant). The Fukui Chamber of Commerce is said to have sent a telegram to Osaka asking for assistance in the prompt resumption of silk exportation. A reply was dispatched from Osaka that the committee had decided on Kobe as the suitable port for raw silk and habutae silk. It is highly probable that Kobe will have this big business added to her range of foreign trade.—Japan Chronicle.

A COFFEE DISCOVERY

According to an Arabian legend, Hadji Omar, a pious dervish, was outlawed from Mecca in the year 1285. When almost dying of hunger in the wilderness, he roasted some of the small round berries he found growing wild in thickets. A few of the roasted berries accidentally fell into his drinking water, and thus coffee was discovered.

Helping Us Out

(San Francisco Chronicle)

Foreign trade means domestic employment in working out own or imported materials into articles for export. It is most effectively promoted by American firms resident in foreign countries, who naturally order from their home country. To promote such trade the British government exempts from taxation British corporations doing their actual business in China and also British subjects resident in China from personal income taxes.

Taxation in all countries is now so severe that tax exemption for British competitors is a real discrimination against Americans. Congress has given some relief, but apparently not enough. What is asked is entire equality in respect to taxation by the home country.

More Laurentic Gold Recovered

IN the House of Commons Sir William Joynson-Hicks, Financial Secretary of the Treasury, recently reported that gold bullion to the amount of £3,817,232, about $15,000,000 had been recovered from the wreck of the steamship Laurentic, which was sunk in the world war off the coast of Ireland.

The Laurentic, which before the war was the largest steamship in the Canadian trade, was converted late in 1916 into an auxiliary cruiser. She was struck either by a German mine or submarine torpedo on January 23, 1917 and she carried down with her a heavy shipment of gold bullion from London to New York.

The value of this gold was never officially declared. It has been estimated to be about $20,000,000, and it is said that the settlement with the insurance companies which assumed the risk of its transportation was upon this basis. If this estimate is to be accepted as correct Sir William Joynson-Hicks's report shows that almost all of the sunken bullion has been recovered.

The British Admiralty and Treasury almost immediately after the loss of the Laurentic sent a joint expedition to the scene of the wreck. This first expedition as well as several others undertaken in war times suffered from submarine boat attacks and the supposition was that the Germans were attempting to recover the lost treasure. The report that they had succeeded, however, was disproved by divers who examined the wreck in 1919.

After the armistice the Admiralty and Treasury renewed their joint effort and employed for the purpose the steamship Racer, a new type of salvage vessel. The Laurentic wreck lay off the Donegal coast in about twenty fathoms of water. As it had been sinking rapidly into the ocean bed the new method of salvage by which the sand could be cleared from the hull and a constant supply of fresh air furnished for the submarine workers proved of the greatest usefulness.

The salvage operations began in March each year and continued until August. The year 1922 saw an especially successful period of salvage work, but at the end of the season the divers reported that operations could not be continued more than another year, as the wreck was fast being buried beneath an accumulation of sand.

The report of Sir William Joynson-Hicks has consequently been taken to mean practically the abandonment of the joint efforts of the Admiralty and Treasury to recover more of the Laurentic gold. The success of the work has been remarkable and comes near setting a record in British salvage operations. It has encouraged the undertaking of a number of other public and private expeditions to recover sunken treasure. One of these is the expedition which left Dover on July 5 to attempt the salvaging of the gold that went down with the Lusitania.

The new method of salvage operation may not be as romantic as the old way of digging for pirates' buried hoards, but it is more profitable. At least it sometimes shows results.

Dr. Schurman On The C. E. R. Land Dispute

Harbin, Sept. 7.—After thanking the Board of Directors for the courtesy and hospitality which they had extended to him in providing a special train for his trip over the Chinese Eastern Railway, and congratulating them upon the condition of the road, the efficiency of the railway service and its comfortable and even magnificent equipment, the minister remarked that railways had in modern times played a most important part in opening new countries, as was amply testified by the history of the United States of America and also at a later date by the history of Canada and of Argentina.

He then called attention to the circumstances that in spite of the service the railways rendered to their respective communities, inevitable conflicts sprang up between them. These generally took the form of disputes over discrimination with respect to localities, commodities, and shippers, secondly to overcharges for freight and passenger traffic, and thirdly, to the exercise of political power and influence on the part of the railway.

He said that the problems of discrimination and overcharges had been settled in the United States by the creation of a Government Railway Commission. As to the exercise of political power and influence on the part of the railways, it had also been met by popular agitation and even by protective legislation, although he believed that democracies, if they were not very watchful, were always menaced by big aggregations of capital, whether engaged in transportation or manufacturing.

GOVERNMENT FUNCTIONS

The Minister said that he had heard no complaints that the Chinese Eastern Railway practised discrimination with respect to shippers, localities, commodities, or the use of cars. This would be regarded as most remarkable in America, and Americans would find it still more astonishing that instead of being accused of making its freight rates too high, the Chinese Eastern Railway had been criticized for making them too low, this being in pursuance of its policy of securing and developing business.

On the other hand, the Chinese Eastern Railway seemed not to have escaped the charge, with which in America the public was very familiar, of absorbing governmental functions in the administration of railway business, though he said—that this charge, so far as he had heard it, mainly referred to events in the past and that, so far as it referred to the present time, it was claimed in reply that the railroad administration had kept strictly within the limits of its charter.

The Chinese Government entered into an agreement in 1905 with the Russo-Chinese Bank, whereby the Chinese Eastern Railway Company was created for the purpose of building and operating the Railway. Article XII of the 1896 contract provided that the Chinese Government transfer to the company the complete and executive right, to operate the line on its own account and risks, so that the Chinese Government would in no way be responsible for any deficits whatever of the company during the time allotted for the work and thereafter for eighty years.

For many years the railway company was faced with actual deficits, and it is matter of common knowledge that these were met by the Russian Government. In this way enormous amounts of Russian government funds have been sunk in the line.

Thus behind the Bank stood the Government of Russia, whose policy it was to have the transcontinental line from Moscow to Vladivostok run in this part of the world through Chinese territory. That Russian Government, however, has passed away and internationally speaking, no other government has taken its place. In the meanwhile China actually extended her jurisdiction over the railway. To regularize this situation, the powers assembled at the Washington Conference, which conferred great benefits on China and passed a resolution holding China responsible for the obligations toward the foreign stockholders, bond holders and creditors of the Chinese Eastern Railway which devolved upon her both as a result of the contracts under which the railway was built and also as a result of the exercise of power by the Chinese Government in the nature of a trust over the possession and administration of the railroad.

LAND DISPUTE

In accordance with this policy formulated by the Washington Conference, the Governments of Great Britain, France, Japan and the United States of America recently made representations to the Chinese Government expressing their disapproval of the proposal of the local Chinese authorities summarily to take over the Land Department of the Chinese Eastern Railway and place it under a newly-constituted Chinese Land Department.

The proposal was characterized by these Governments as a departure from the established conduct of the affairs of the Railway, which might result in the impairment of existing rights as well as a contravention of the spirit of the resolutions of the railway to the lands it has held undisturbed for a score of years are all of equal validity. I do not raise the issue whether any agreement should or should not be made between the Chinese authorities and the Railway for the retrocession of some of these lands. I do not inquire whether the Railway needs these lands or whether its contracts with the Chinese Government made any distinction between lands needed for the railway tracks and lands used for other purposes. I do not attempt to pass upon the merits for the claims in this issue.

Some people tell me that the local Chinese authorities did the right thing but did it in the wrong way. Others assure me with equal emphasis that they did the wrong thing. I pass over these and similar asseverations. I put myself on an entirely different platform. I say that a grave issue has been created, no matter how or by whom, and that as reasonable and peace-loving men we should prevent its becoming a cause of injury both to China and to the Railway, and an occasion of international embroilment. I declare most emphatically that the duty of all of us—China, foreign nations, and Railway—is to go back as near as we can to the position in which we all were prior to these unhappy events. Then let us aim at a satisfactory solution of the problem in a satisfactory way.

CHINA'S ASPIRATION

How is that to be done? Why, we must do it by respecting fundamental principles and with due regard to the claims of the several parties. You say that this is not possible. I reply that all things are possible to men of good will and of a reasonable spirit. Civilized men settle their difference by conference, by adjustment, by mutual concession, subject only to the inviolability of fundamental principles of right. You ask what principles are involved. I put first of all this one: There must be no invasion of the integrity of the sovereignty of China. If the railway has done anything outside of its agreement with the Chinese Government that infringes the sovereignty of China, the matter should be investigated and a remedy found. I sympathize entirely with the aspirations and desires of the Chinese people to retain the mastery of the destiny of their own country. I am glad to remind you that the primary aim and the fundamental result of the Washington Conference, so far as China was concerned, was to reassert and strengthen the political, administrative and territorial integrity of the country.

CONTRACTS BINDING BOTH PARTIES

In the second place I have to remind you that moral principles are binding upon all nations, and that contracts and agreements are equally binding on those who enter into them. I may need my

HUSH MONEY

He was a great practical joker, and never lost a chance to get a good one on somebody.

A few days ago he stopped a friend on Main Street and said, confidentially:

"I never would have believed it, but I believe it my duty to make it known. Mr.—, the Alderman, for our ward, has been taking hush money."

"Impossible!" said his friend. "I tell you, it's true, for I overheard the conversation and actually saw it handed over to him, and he took the money and put it in his pocket."

Then he went on without explaining any further, and the thing got talked around considerably for a day or two.

He forgot all about it until one day he met the alderman and was the alderman's to the extent of two black eyes and a coat split up the back.

And then he had to go all round and explain that what he meant was that he had seen the alderman's wife give him a dip to buy some paragon for the baby.

"ONLY TO LIE—"

Only to lie in the evening, Watching the purple shadows O'er the blue heavens sailing; Mystical dream-like shrouds, Watching the purple shadows Filling the woodlands glades Only to lie in the twilight Deep in the gathering shades.

by the Constitution of the United States.

But, in all human affairs we have to take account of the effect on the position of the individual himself—"face" as the Chinese call it—as well as fundamental moral and political principles. In the present instance, action has already been taken by the local Chinese authorities, by foreign nations, and by the Railway. In a measure they have all committed themselves. Yet I believe the way of peaceful, reasonable settlement is still open. The first thing necessary is that no more diverging steps be taken by any of the parties. This would prepare the way for the second step. That step, in my opinion, is as indispensable as it is urgent.

FULL AND FRANK DISCUSSION

Do you ask what that step is? I will tell you. I propose that the Land Administration which has just been created by local Chinese authorities, but which the officers of the Railway refuse to recognize suspend all its operations and activities until the claim of the Chinese authorities to the ownership and administration tion of the lands hitherto held and administered by the Chinese Eastern Railway Company has been formally presented to the Board of Directors of the Railroad, along with the grounds and the reasons upon which the claim rests. I urge a full and frank discussion between the two parties to the dispute. I should be hopeful of good results from a conference in which regard for actual facts, common sense, the spirit of accommodation, and devotion to justice and right actuated the participants.

If, unhappily, consultation and conference failed to evolve a satisfactory adjustment of the dispute, there is happily open a mode of settlement which each party must be ready to accept—the more ready the stronger the confidence each possesses in the justice of its own claim. I mean an appeal to law, which is the foundation of all civilized society, and the basis, on the political side, of all human civilization. Whoever rejects the legal determination of his claim under a contract proclaims in advance the weakness of his cause. The present trouble has arisen in connection with a matter which is embraced in agreements between the Chinese Eastern Railway Company. The settlement of the trouble can be effected by the interpretation of the relevant clauses of those agreements and their application to the point in dispute by competent authorities in whom both sides have entire confidence.

Gentlemen, this is not merely a dispute between a railway company and a couple of remote Chinese provinces. You are staging a drama of which the actors are the Republic of China and the Great Powers of Europe, Asia and America. Nor is this a petty quarrel about the ownership of some one hundred thousand acres of land. You have raised the most momentous issue that was ever presented to the civilized world—the issue between force and legal rights.

Gentlemen, I voice the sentiment of the civilized world when I plead with you for delay, for consideration, for conference, for a legal determination of contractual rights. And I ask all parties to bow to the majesty of the law.

Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent, or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent, or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of those infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium, or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy and retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse. It causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

The signature of Dr. H. H. Fletcher guarantees genuine Castoria.
